1. Internet Tools

These 'tools' help the user find desired information on the Internet by means of, for example, indexes or search software. It is strongly recommended to include search tools within your 'bookmarks'.

Tool	Description	Address (email/internet)
Deja News Research Service	Search engine for newsgroups	http://www.dejanews.com
Devline	Resource index from the Institute of Development Studies (IDS), an independent UK-based research institute; information and databases on development	http://www.ids.ac.uk
ELDIS	Again produced by IDS, with a wealth of information and resources on development	http://www.ids.ac.uk/eldis
Netscape Search	This gives access to all the latest search engines including Lycos and Yahoo.	http://home.netscape.com/home/internet-search.html
Lycos	General Web search engine for finding documents either by title or content.	http://www.lycos.com
Yahoo	Probably the best of the search engines on the Web, again searches by content or title of document. As it has been around the longest, it tends to be the most comprehensive	http://www.yahoo.com
Mailbase	Academic mailing list from the UK, useful for research and discussion groups	http://mailbase.ac.uk
All You Need is E-mail	Allows users to request WWW pages via email when they do not have the telecommunications equipment and connection capable of running a full Internet service. Tends to be slow.	http://www.hw.ac.uk/libWWW/libram/allyou.html

2. 10 Recommended Sites

The following ten addresses contain both valuable information in their own right, and also represent useful 'jumping off sites'. We recommend users try them out as a first step. They are not listed in any particular order.

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)
Emergency Humanitarian Action Homepage	A division of the World Health Organisation. Provides information on WHO emergency focal points, an update of its relief and rehabilitation activities on a country basis, emergency preparedness and contacts for regional offices of the WHO.	http://www.who.ch/programmes/eha/eha_home.html
ELDIS (IDS Electronic Development Information Service)	This is up-to-date and easy to use. Extensive resources on many aspects of development, disasters and conflicts including comprehensive country reports and good links to other useful information, eg. course guide on development studies. It tends to focus more on development issues than emergencies, but offers good overall geographical and background information.	http://www.ids.ac.uk/eldis/
EPIX (Emergency Preparedness Information eXchange)	Operated by the Centre for Policy Research on Science and Technology (CPROST) in Canada, it provides: emergency situation and news reports; information on disaster management organisations; education and training; emergency communication; medicine and resource centres with connections to databases at disaster preparedness centres. Emphasis on natural disasters rather than complex emergencies.	http://hoshi.cic.sfu.ca/~anderson/index.html
Humanitarian Crisis Web	Also known as ReliefWeb and provided by the UN Department of Humanitarian Affairs. It provides situation reports on DHA operations. There is comprehensive coverage of those countries and emergencies listed, but the list of countries is not very extensive: Angola, Azerbaijan, Colombia, Malawi and Sudan as of February 1996. This is currently under review following comments solicited on its structure.	http://www.unicc.org/relief
Human Rights Resource page	Comprehensive information on human rights with links to all resources and organisations on the Internet that have human rights involvement in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East.	http://www.traveller.com/~hrweb/resources.html

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)
FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency)	Washington-based organisation which provides good information related to preparing for, and coping with, disasters. Also provides news on ongoing situations predominantly concerned with natural disasters. Mainly US related information, with close links to eg. the US fire service and the US Red Cross.	http://www.fema.gov/homepage.html
International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent	Home page of the International Federation of the Red Cross with details of national societies' activities around the world, publications and resources on disaster preparedness and management - including emergency relief, health and social assistance. A pretty neutral and reliable source of information with a long history of experience in emergencies.	http://www.ifrc.org
PAHO (Pan American Health Organisation) on Emergency Preparedness and Disaster Relief	Also based in Washington, this is an international public health agency which provides country health profiles, disaster situation reports, as well as contact points for disaster coordinators for Central America, the Caribbean and South America. It collaborates with governmental and non-governmental agencies with the objective of strengthening national and local health systems (disease, sanitation, public health). Also provides information on emergency preparedness, technical information and PAHO publications.	http://www.paho.org
Disaster Information Resource Project	Situation and status reports on ongoing disasters. This site is part of 'Volunteers in Technical Assistance' who work to improve technology transfer. DIRP offers some useful reference material.	http://www.vita.org/disaster/disaster.html
APC (Association for Progressive Communication)	Home page of APC with links to all individual networks. A key site for both specific information and general links to a wealth of organisations working in the fields of humanitarian, environmental and development assistance. It is also multilingual.	http://www.igc.org/igc/apc.html

3. Disaster and Relief Organisations

Primary sites of organisations working directly in the field of disasters and relief.

3.1 Web Sites

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)
Amnesty International	Amnesty Home Page for activities and reports. Currently rather limited information available.	http://www.amnesty.org OR, http://www.igc.apc.org/igc/amnesty.html
CARE	CARE (one of the world's largest relief agencies) home page for activities, situation reports and access to other resources.	http://www.care.org
CROP (Church World Service)	This site is currently unavailable, but should reappear	http://www.netmarket.com/igc/apc.html
DisasterNet	Information about current and past disasters with good links to other resources, albeit predominantly US based.	http://www.disaster.org
Doctors without Borders	Home page of Doctors without Borders and its activities. Currently unavailable.	http://www.intac.com/pubservice/rwanda/HORN/rwanda/fund/dwb.html
GEOWARN (Global Emergency Observation Warning and Relief Network)	This site is unstable and access is sometimes difficult.	http://www.ghcc.msfc.nasa.gov:5678/GEOWARN/homepage.html
HazardNET Home Page	An experimental site, the product of an International Emergency Reduction, Readiness and Response System project. It offers a map on entry to the page to help identify areas of disaster/emergency.	http://hoshi.cic.sfu.ca/~hazard
Humanitarian Home Page	An almost one man show, set up by a PhD student from the Department of Politics at Aberystwyth University, it is an independent page with useful links to aid organisations and resources.	http://www.aber.ac.uk/~bbr94
Human Rights Home page	Again, an almost one man show. Informative and up to date with good resources and links.	http://www.intac.com/PubService/human_rights/LIST/longlist.html

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)
HungerWeb	The product of a Brown University (Rhode Island) study, offering an exchange of ideas on the causes and solutions to hunger. Useful site containing articles and research resources, advocacy materials and policy documents.	http://www.hunger.brown.edu/hungerweb
IANWeb (International Affairs Network)	US University based, set up in August 1994 to enhance the institutional capacity of International Relations and International Affairs schools. An up to date and useful resource site.	http://www.pitt.edu/~ian/ianres.html
INCORE	Initiative on Conflict Resolution and Ethnicity offers reports and links to other sites.	http://www.incore.ulst.ac.uk/inc.info.html
INTAC Access Corporation	Information on human rights, although slightly out of date - the most recent entry found was March 1995.	http://www.intac.com/PubService/human_rights
InterAction	US coalition of 150 non-profit organisations provides news, sitreps, publications and useful links for disasters and other humanitarian information.	http://www.interaction.org/disasters.html
International Rescue Corps	Home page of IRC.	http://www.demon.co.uk/irc/irc1.html
MAP Worldwatch	A non-profit Christian relief and development organisation with offices in North America, Latin America, Africa and Asia. Limited resources on disasters but good links to others.	http://www.map.org/crises.html
OneWorld Online	A joint initiative run by journalists and NGOs on global themes such as AIDS and human rights. A project of the OneWorld broadcasting trust. Involves a number of VIPs eg. Terry Waite, and HRH Prince of Jordan. A key site for links to a wide range of non-governmental organisations.	http://www.oneworld.org
Overseas Development Institute	An independent charitable research institute. The page offers access to information on specific countries, programmes and research projects. A great site! with links to the Relief and Rehabilitation Network.	http://www.oneworld.org/odi

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)
OXFAM	Home page for OXFAM and its activities. Again good resources and reports.	http://www.oneworld.org/oxfam
ReliefNet	Humanitarian relief resources, mainly related to the US but some useful links.	http://www.relief.org
ResponseNet	Serves humanitarian purposes through the application of information technology with a focus on operational data - for example, the provision of map software.	http://www.response.org
Rwanda Crisis Net	Resources on current Rwandan situation. This site is currently down but should be restored soon.	http://www.intac.com/PubService/rwanda
Save the Children Fund	SCF Home Page and activities.	http://www.oneworld.org/scf/
UNICEF	UNICEF Home Page and activities.	http://www.unicef.org
USAID Home Page	USAID Home Page and activities. Department of Federal US Government - main agency for aid and assistance worldwide to 'advance and further US political and economic interests'. Concentration on improving health, economic growth, environmental protection and supporting democracy. Quite good resources.	http://www.info.usaid.gov

4. Education Resource Sites Relating to Disasters/Emergencies

5.3 Mail Sites

In order to subscribe to a mailing list and receive information, you need to send an email subscription message to the computer hosting the list. For example, to subscribe to the peacekeeping mailing list, send a message reading: subscribe peacekeeping [your name] to listproc@gmu.edu. Usually the subject line in such messages is left blank. The address for posting messages on the list and to subscribers, is different. In the above example, the address would be: peacekeeping@gmu.edu. If you do not wish to annoy others, do not confuse the two.

Source	Description	Address (email/internet)

9. Internet Providers in Southern Countries

Due to the lack of full internet connectivity (see Figure 3), the majority of Southern organisations do not have their own web pages. The easiest access is via subscription to the APC directly. This section offers a comprehensive directory of Southern organisations contactable via email. The other organisations listed here provide commercial Internet access.

9.1 APC

These are the member organisations. By joining these networks you may obtain access to the much wider affiliated networks that belong to the APC.
