Project title: “Assisting the Kyrgyz Government in Combatting Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing”

Partners: No

Beneficiaries: Office of Government, State Financial Intelligence Service, Ministry of Interior, other law enforcement bodies

Project objective: To assist the Government in taking the measures necessary to increase the capacity of the Government in general and the State Financial Intelligence Service (SFIS) in particular to address threats posed by money laundering and financing of terrorism.

Project description:

CiB provides assistance to the Government of Kyrgyz Republic in undertaking a program of reforms aimed at increasing its capacity to combat money laundering and terrorism financing. Moreover, it assists in development of cooperation with regional and international counterparts, thus helping the Government to address transnational threats to security in the economic and environmental areas.

In 2012 and 2013, the CiB supported the establishment of the SFIS Training Centre. Nevertheless, further support is needed to build the operational and analytical capacity of the SFIS and its personnel. In order to solve this issue, current project will provide the SFIS with well-directed technical assistance to increase its analytical and technical capacities, and support outreach initiatives to provide SFIS personnel with opportunities to learn from other international progressive AML/CFT systems.

In July 2013, the CiB commissioned a needs assessment of the State Financial Intelligence Service of the Kyrgyz Republic (SFIS). Results of this report suggest that the Government needs assistance in adoption and implementation of legislation that addresses the recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF). In addition, necessity of modern methods of combating MLFT and more close and effective cooperation with international and regional counterpart agencies, and other government bodies in the country was identified.
